Unit 1: An email to a friend

Sample answer 1

Dear Alex I hope you and your family are well. It's been a long time since we have been in touch. I often wonder how are you and what your doing. I'm not to busy at school, I have time to practise my guitar and I am going to music concerts when I have the chance. Anyway, the reason I'm writing is because I'm doing a school project on teenage life. I thought it would be good to do about teenagers in others countries. I think teenagers in your country are different. So I wondered if you could help me by answering these questions. Are there stereotypes of teenagers in your country? What sort of words do adults use to describe teenagers? Are they mostly positive or negative? How are teenagers are shown in the media? Are there TV programmes about teenagers?, for example? What do they show? Do you or your friends have role models? Are any of them older people? Why are they role models? I'm really appreciate your help with this, so thank you in advance! Looking forwards to hearing you, Carol 185 words	Attempt Adequate. Language/Ambition The writer has mostly used language from the model text, so there is little ambition, but the original language used here is appropriate. Range Limited vocabulary and grammar beyond what the model provides. Organisation/Cohesion Generally well organised and appropriately paragraphed. Accuracy Some errors occur, even when drawing from model, e.g. 'I often wonder ... what your doing.' Tense problem: 'I am going to music concerts ...'. Communicative achievement Reader's attention held and ideas quite clearly communicated. Content All content points present.

Sample answer 2

Dear Val I hope it's been a long time since we been in touch. Anyway the reason I'm writing is because to ask for help for my project on the teenage life. Are there stereotypes of older teenagers in your country. What sort of words do young people use to describe older teenagers. How are older teenagers shown in the media. Are there programmes about older teenagers. Do you have a role models? Why are they? I'd really appreciate your help with, so thank you in advance. love Idressa 89 words	Attempt Poor. Language/Ambition Very little original language appears here, and what little there is tends to be incorrect. Range Text is incomplete and lacks range of vocabulary and grammar. Organisation/Cohesion Text is paragraphed correctly, but is mostly copied directly from the model. Accuracy Frequent errors, even when importing language from the model, e.g. 'I hope its been a long time since we been in touch.' Some spelling mistakes, e.g. 'programmes' and grammatical errors, e.g. 'because to ask'. Question marks missing. Communicative achievement Communicates some simple ideas. Content Lacks some content. Not all the information required by the task is present.

Sample answer 1

Homework Trouble The girl in the photo seems to have some trouble. She is at home, perhaps her room. Her hands are covering her eyes, and she looks tired and depressed. Perhaps it is a homework which she has the trouble with it. It is late because her light shines on the page. I think she has a cup of coffe to help her awake. She might have started her work not early enough. She might have watched some programm or video. Or maybe she might have homework too difficult. In my opinion, is always better first to do the homework, then she can relax herself and enjoy better as she wants. Perhaps she will phone to her freinds and ask at them for help with her homework? Finally The girl in this photo is sitting on a bank in the park with a laptop on her knees. Her arms are pointing at the sky. Something fantasique must have took place. I think maybe she might had hundreds of likes on her facebook, or might she have won her friend at a game. Even she might have gained a lot of money from the loterie. I think you must be careful with your laptop, because some times bad thinks may have happened like hacking, for example. Next I think she will msg all her freinds and tell them the good new. 231 words	Attempt Adequate. Language/Ambition Evidence of some ambition, attempting complex language, though this is not always successful. Range Reasonable range of vocabulary: 'she looks tired and depressed', 'hundreds of likes on her facebook'. The teaching point 'might/may have' is mostly successfully employed. Organisation/Cohesion Correctly paragraphed, connected and coherent with linkers and cohesive devices, e.g. 'In my opinion', 'for example'. Accuracy Errors occur quite frequently: spelling, e.g. 'fantasique'; word order, e.g. 'Even she might have'; lexis, e.g. 'she might have won her friend'; and verbs, e.g. 'she might had'. Communicative achievement Uses the conventions of the communicative task in generally appropriate ways to communicate straightforward ideas. Content All required content is present.

Sample answer 2

Concentration! The person in the picture has wrapped her hands around her head, in order to help her to concentrate and think deeply about something. She must have been given some difficult homework, I think, possibly, she might have been asked to memorise a poem or she may have an exam tomorrow. Every student has her own way to learn, and I notice that there is a cup of coffee on her desk, too. Perhaps she works better late at night like me. The Achievement Something wonderful has happened for this girl! She seems to be full of joy and excitement. She may have had a message from a university to win a place there. On the other hand, she may have just been informed that she has won a prize. Or could she have just booked a ticket for a fabulous concert online? Always when I open my computer, I know I am exciting because I never know what good news may happen for me. 170 words	Attempt Excellent. Language/Ambition Good ambition, original language and complex grammatical forms, e.g. 'she may have been asked to memorise a poem'. Range Wide range of less common lexis, e.g. 'The person ... has wrapped her hands around her head' and some complex grammatical forms, e.g. 'she may have been asked to memorise a poem'. Organisation/Cohesion Well organised and coherent, good use of cohesive devices and linkers. Accuracy Very occasional minor errors, communication not impeded. Communicative achievement Holds the reader's attention and communicates ideas clearly. Content All content appropriate to task.

Unit 3: A travel blog

Sample answer 1

Blog Trip: The island of Lanzarote Cycling around the island When I checked the map of Lanzarote, I knew that there were many hills and mountains. But it is a small island - and if you have to climb up a hill, you will have a funny time going down again. Just we stayed on the East side. Day 1 We arrived in Arieta. This place is well known for it's wonderfull fish retaurantes and we ate such a good food in one of they. Day 2 We headed towards the Cactus Garden that we saw an amazing varyety of cactus plants. My friend wants to be a garden dessiner so I went to the café while he was writing the names of the best. Day 3 We stayed at a hostel in Orzola. We had to wait while the rooms were being prepared. It was too busy and the food was normal, but it was also quite cheap. Day 4 We took a boat journey to the tiny island of La Graciosa, there we had a wonderful lunch - fish again! Day 5 We cycled through some interesting landscape when we reached Mirador del Rio. Fabulous views and we made memorial photos. Day 6 We put our bikes on a bus back to the airport. I definately want to go back and see more of this beatiful island. 229 words	Attempt Good. Language/Ambition Quite ambitious, some original ideas, suggestions from unit incorporated, few errors apart from spelling. Range Reasonable range, though not always successful when using less common vocabulary, e.g. 'memorial'. Organisation/Cohesion Well organised, following the model quite closely. Accuracy Generally accurate, some words misspelled, problems with relatives, e.g. 'that' or 'there' used when 'where' appropriate in both cases. Communicative achievement Reader informed, ideas clearly communicated, some personal feelings expressed in addition to description. Content All relevant to the task, and requirements all met.

Sample answer 2

Blog Trip: Cathar castles in France Hikeing in France Number of days: 6 I am always intersting at castles and I thouthgt this trip will be especial for me, that was true also. Day 1 We stay in a guest house very nice one in Quillan and after the breakfast we headed for Tuchan then a walk through country with a good smelling plants. Day 2 This day we arrive at the Chateau d'Aguilar, a nice castel for me and we had a tour from a lady who knew all. Day 3 While we was being driven by a taxi to Padern a village very nice at a riverside the country looked very good. Ther, also is a castle but now is quite broken. Day 4 We stopped for lunch at Cucugnan is a very nice city with good meals. I loved these days wakling with the castles. Day 5 I am back to my apartament in the city. I missed the green and good air. 166 words	Attempt Inadequate. Language/Ambition Despite some attempt to include language required by the task, language overall is quite limited. Range Little evidence of range, overuse of certain lexis, e.g. 'nice'. Organisation/Cohesion Text follows the organisational pattern of the model satisfactorily, but there are few cohesive devices or linkers except the most basic. The introduction states that it is a six-day trip but only five days are described. Accuracy Errors of grammar, lexis and spelling are frequent, some perhaps due to carelessness ('castel' is sometimes spelled correctly as 'castle'). Frequent problems with tenses. Communicative achievement Some simple ideas communicated, but errors sometimes obscure meaning. Content Most of the requirements of the task are fulfilled.

Unit 4: An essay giving views on zoos

Sample answer 1

Zoos Young children are fascinated by animals and always love to make a trip to the zoo. However, as they grow older, many of them feel sympathy for the animals who are locked up in an unnatural environment. Actually, zoos can fulfil a very useful function, especially at this time, when so many animals are becoming rare, because rare species can be saved by breeding in captivity, and many zoos do this at the moment. Another positive aspect of zoos is the fact young people can go to a special area where they can have physical contact with animals like ponies or goats. Much research has shown that contact with animals have a de-stressing effect. However, if you visit a zoo you can often watch animals look bored sitting in the corner, or big cats walk up and down in their cages swishing their tails. The natural space for any animal is it's normal environment, not a metal cage. To sum up, I believe that zoos can help species to survive, and by paying tickets, the public can help too, although animal's homes should reflect their natural environment which may mean the public can't easily see them. 197 words	Attempt Very good. Language/Ambition Very ambitious, well developed argument, natural language and few errors. Range Wide range of less common lexis, e.g. 'swishing'. Some complex structures used, e.g. 'animal's homes should reflect their natural environment'. Organisation/Cohesion Text is well organised and coherent. Linkers and cohesive devices in evidence, e.g. 'Another positive aspect ...'. Accuracy Very few errors, communication not impeded. Communicative achievement Reader's attention held and ideas clearly communicated. Content All content is relevant to task, reader fully informed.

Sample answer 2

Zoos When you go to a good zoo you go to the world because you can see animals from every continents, from penguins to camels. And this is good for everybody because who not likes a panda or giraff? Children love animals and a visit to the zoo gives them everything, isn't it? Felling afraid from the lion, enjoyed by the monkey, every animals make different fellings for a child. Many children go to zoo and think to be an animal doctor or to save the animals in Africa. Some people says that the animals are unhappy but in a good zoo I don't think so. They cages are clean there food is fresh they even have babies. Zoos are then very good to visit with your child. 128 words	Attempt Inadequate. Language/Ambition Some ambition and originality, e.g. the first sentence, but marred by frequent errors. Range Limited range, overuse of some lexis, e.g. 'good'. Organisation/Cohesion Correctly paragraphed, but restricted use of linking words, e.g. 'because', 'and', 'or'. Lacks cohesive devices. Accuracy Frequent errors of grammar and spelling, e.g. 'Felling afraid from the lion'. Communicative achievement Reader partially informed, straightforward ideas communicated. Content Incomplete, very little argument against zoos.

Unit 5: A report on technology in school

Sample answer 1

Technology at Linbury Court School We have divided our report into three sections. The first section explains why I think technology is important in the classroom, The next section describes the technology in the school now. The last section gives details of our wishes for the futur. Technology in the classroom. Studies suggest that most students improve the learning with the technology and they like it. For example, they watch a Ted talk and then tell about it. A few of our classrooms have the interactive whiteboards. However, would be more better to have the boards in all places to help more children learning. And the digital teaching assistants are necesary in this modern time. Despite many apps are now available for education we need to use them for help in the classroom not only at the home. 138 words	Attempt Inadequate. Language/Ambition Much of the language has been lifted from the model. Where original language appears, it tends to be quite simple and often flawed. Insufficiently developed. Range Very limited. Little lexis or structure beyond what is lifted from the model. Organisation/Cohesion Appropriately paragraphed, following the model. But only one section has a heading. Attempt to use cohesive devices not always successful, e.g. use of 'Despite' is incorrect. Accuracy Frequent inaccuracies, e.g. overuse of 'the'; missing subject of verb, e.g. 'However, would be more better'; incorrect lexis, e.g. 'then tell about it.' Some spelling mistakes. Communicative achievement Reader is informed to some extent – straightforward ideas are communicated, but there is little development. Content Little original content, though topic has been addressed.

Sample answer 2

Technology at Beechwood School This report is in response to a request from our headmaster. There are three main headings; the first discusses the importance of the technology in the classroom, the second describes the existing technology in the school and the third focuses on our future wishes. The importance of technology in the classroom. In these days, all the students are familiar with technology and are using their phones not only for the leisure purpose, but also for study, as it can provide many short cuts, by use of Alexa, for example. So many knowledges are available just by touch of a button and that is how students expect to learn now. The present situation We have a computer room with 30 consoles. The hardware is quite new and works well and the interactive whiteboard is helpful, too. Our IT teacher uses it very effectively. However, there are no enough software programmes loaded up comparing to many schools. Also, not all students are treating the equipment carefully, so sometimes some consols are not in order and students may have share. The future We have seen how can the interactive whiteboard in the computer room be helpful, so it would be great if all classrooms could provide like that. However, it is very important that staff receives training about how to use them proprely because they are expensive resorces. 229 words	Attempt Good. Language/Ambition Some ambition, development of own ideas, quite good control for the most part, authentic language for the topic. Range Reasonable range of lexis and some more complex structure, e.g. the sentence 'In these days ... for example.' Organisation/Cohesion Generally well organised, correctly paragraphed with appropriate headings. Reasonable variety of cohesive devices. Accuracy Errors are present, e.g. number ('so many knowledges'), word order ('We have seen how can the interactive whiteboard ... be helpful') and some syntax, but overall, errors do not impede communication. Communicative achievement Holds the reader's attention and communicates ideas clearly. Content All content is appropriate, but part 4, research, has not been developed.

Unit 6: An email about the rules at school

Sample answer 1

Dear Isabel It sounds very interesting and I think is something a lot important because very many schools rules are not good. I leave to school at half past seven because my father takes me on the way to the work. So I arrive more early but than I make my homework and we start at quarter to nine. So I never was late, so not sure about report to the school office. There is school uniform at my school, but I don't like that, so I am not wearing. I like the jeans and tea shirt. We couldn't wear a jewellery, because is too expensive, and maybe easy to loose. We can take our phone at school, but our teacher locks it in the morning until we go at the home. So I see my phone only at home. Outside of the classroom we must not be very noisy or running and no big groups but outside we don't have school rules so is good. I think the phones rule is bad because my phone can be good for the lesson, like translating or any thing like that. 187 words	Attempt Inadequate. Language/Ambition Everyday vocabulary used generally appropriately, but some lexis overused, e.g. 'good', 'so'. Some control of grammatical forms, but errors are frequent. Range Limited, in terms of vocabulary and grammar. Organisation/Cohesion Paragraphing is inconsistent and does not follow the model. Basic linkers used, but few additional cohesive devices. Accuracy Frequent errors with prepositions and articles, e.g. 'until we go at the home'. Communicative achievement Straightforward ideas generally communicated, but some lack of clarity at times. No signing off or signature. Content Incomplete – no reference to bullying.

Sample answer 2

Dear Isabel Thanks for your email. It is an interesting topic and there is a lot of discussion about it here at my school. Now I tell you about our rules. We have register at 08.00, but we need be in the hall 5 minutes early. If we are late we give a job to do, like clearing up the classroom in the end of the day. School uniform is compulsory here. We have to buy from the school, but they also sell second hand clothes which they buy back from old students. If we are not wearing a tie, or having our jacket not closed, we have to stay in classroom for an hour after lessons finished. We're allowed to take phones to school, but we have to give them to the teacher before the lesson is starting. If we want to ask a question, we put up our hands. Outside the classroom, we are not allowed to run in the school building, and we have to look the notice board in break to see if there is anything important we need to do. The school is very strict about bullying. If someone bullies another student, they will send home for three days. But students don't report bullying. If they did, they would have more bullying. Overall, I think the rules here are too much strict and a little bit old fashioned. The student council is always trying to change them. Best Wishes Johann 245 words	Attempt Good. Language/Ambition Generally quite fluent, model followed but much original language used, quite well controlled, e.g. conditional sentences. Range A variety of simple and some more complex grammar used, and a reasonable range of vocabulary is present. Organisation/Cohesion Well organised, paragraphing correctly used, some linkers and cohesive devices in evidence. Accuracy Errors not infrequent, but not impeding, e.g. 'rules here are too much strict ...'. Communicative achievement Reader's attention held, ideas clearly communicated. Content All requirements addressed and developed.

Unit 7: A 'for and against' essay about competitive sport

Sample answer 1

Football Football must be the most popular sport in all the world. I am sure they play in almost every country in the world. However, in later times, there was a lot of reports about how can it be too much dangerous. Football is a big money sport. First, everyone want to watch the football on tv. So that means many companies are fighting to show football in their programs. As a result, football clubs take so much money. You can see this, for example, because to buy one player can pay more money than €200 million! Therefor many boys want to get football stars. On the other hand, many people who have played football when they were young, have healthy problems when they become older. Because in the football you must hit the ball with your head, it can become dangerous and make problems for your brain, like dementia. In addition, some footballers had hart problems and fell down on the ground when they have played. I think it not possible to stop the football, but they are able to change the rules. Not use the head to hit the ball and make the game more short would be better for the healthy of all. 206 words	Attempt Adequate. Language/Ambition Quite ambitious, with some original ideas, but frequent problems with language errors. Range Reasonable range of vocabulary. Attempt to use a range of grammatical forms, but not always successful. Organisation/Cohesion Generally well organised and coherent, with a variety of linking words and cohesive devices, most of which are suggested in the unit. Accuracy Frequent errors: lexical, e.g. 'pay' (cost), 'get' (become); grammatical, e.g. tenses, 'companies are fighting'; and word order, e.g. 'reports about how can it be ...'. Communicative achievement Despite frequent errors, holds reader's attention and communicates ideas. Content All content is relevant to the task.

Sample answer 2

Motor Racing Motor racing existed since almost the same time as cars were first produced. Today it is big business and it is a very popular sport. Most people have a car and enjoy to drive fast when they have the chance and it is thrilling to see, at the track or on tv. Motor racing is glamorous because it is about speed, fashion and money. In addition, not only it is very competitive, but also, because all the teams constantly developing the engineering, there is positive effect for the public, who benefit from innovation which can be useful to the ordinary automobile. Crowds of people go to the race track to see the fast cars, their favourite drivers and their beautiful girls friends. On the other hand, do we need this kind of sport in these times? First, there is a lot of petrol used and this causes pollution - think of the Le Mans 24 hour race, for example. Second, many people now believe in public transport better than the private car, so why need the latest development for cars when we should use trains and buses? Also, it is a dangerous sport and accidents often happen. In my opinion, the engineers should look at different engines and develop electric cars. We use them now on the roads, why not on the race track? Also, invest more money in safety for cars would be really helpful. 238 words	Attempt Excellent. Language/Ambition Ambitious, with good use of natural language and few errors. Range Wide range of appropriate lexis, including less used words, e.g. 'glamorous', 'innovation', etc. Also, includes a variety of more complex grammatical items. Organisation/Cohesion Very well organised, appropriately paragraphed and uses many of the connectives suggested in this unit. Accuracy Good standard of accuracy with only occasional, minor errors, which do not impede communication. Communicative achievement Reader's attention held effectively, clearly communicating simple and complex forms. Content Fully developed, all content relevant.

Unit 8: A report about extreme weather conditions

Sample answer 1

Philippines Suffers from Series of Typhoons 2020 has been a very difficult year for people from the Philippines. Typhoon Goni is the ninth typhoon to hit that country this year, and it is also the more strong. It started on October 26th and got more strongly until on the 30th it was a super typhoon. The wind was more than 300 km the hour. That is the more strong typhoon the world ever knew. Many things disappeared under the water and 25 people were killed. In addition there was lava came from a volcano and thousands of persons loosed their homes, some for short time, others for ever. Communications stopped and roads and bridges destroyed. The cost of the dammage was very great, more than $300 million. As it travelled across the Philippines it has become weaker and when it arrived to Vietnam on November 5th, there was heavy rain and strong winds, but not so badly as the Philippines, but it was also a problem there because of the previous typhoons. The number of typhoons is increasing and the strenght of it also. Maybe global warning is the problem. The other problem for scientists to think of is the shelters, if too much people come together in one place this can make infection grow. 215 words	Attempt Adequate. Language/Ambition Quite ambitious, and although the language in places is flawed, there is some control and evidence of more complex language. Range Reasonable range of vocabulary and language for the topic, e.g. 'lava came from a volcano'. Organisation/Cohesion Paragraphing mirrors that of the model answer, and overall, the text is quite well organised, although the fourth paragraph consists of one overlong sentence. Accuracy Frequent inaccuracies present – tenses, confusion of comparatives and superlatives, and adjectives and adverbs. Communicative achievement Reader's attention held, ideas successfully communicated for the most part. Content All content is relevant to the task.

Sample answer 2

South Korea suffers in freak monsoon In July 2020, South Korea suffered very badly effects from 42 days of non-stop rain, the worst monsoon season for years. The constant rain had a terrible effect, and caused huge damage for buildings, roads and bridges when floods and landslides were caused by the endless rain. 14 people were killed and more than 1000 forced from their homes as a result. The victims including 3 holidaymakers from New Zealand, and 3 factory workers killed when a landslide struck their building. President Moon Jae-in asked for great efforts to stop more people from dying, evacuating people from homes most at danger. However, most of the flooding roads and bridges along the Han River were working again a few days after the rain finally has stopped. North Korea also badly affected, but the state news agency there has not given any details. Weather experts said that climate change is responsible and that similar events are likely to happen more frequently in the future. 168 words	Attempt Very good. Language/Ambition Language of disasters used appropriately, with much natural language and some fluency. Range Good range of relevant vocabulary, e.g. 'floods', 'endless rain', and some grammatical complexity, e.g. 'Weather experts ... the future'. Organisation/Cohesion Well organised, paragraphing reflects model, good use of cohesive devices. Accuracy Generally accurate, few errors, none impeding, e.g. 'suffered very badly effects'. Communicative achievement Reader's attention held and simple, and more complex ideas clearly communicated. Content All content relevant to task, all requirements met.

Unit 9: An informal letter

Sample answer 1

Dear Charlie How are things? I hope life is treating you well. Now you are 21, I'd like to guess where are you living and what are you doing? I am sure you must be at university now, studying economics. What part of the course do you like more? Do you still want to be banker when you graduate? If you are not at college, I wonder what you might do? In Year 9 you were interested in collecting coins. Are you still adding your collection? Is there any other hobby you started? I remember you had great plans for travel across USA from east to west. Have you yet done that, or will you do it after you get your degree? Because you were good in playing the guitar, I wonder if you formed your own band? I know you wanted to, have you managed? I'm sure you didn't forget Yolanda in Year 9. Such a brilliant artist! Are you still in contact with her? I wonder if she is able to sell her work? All the best, Roberta 180 words	Attempt Excellent. Language/Ambition Very good – the model has been followed closely, but the language used is different and original. Range Very good, wide range of informal language appropriately used. Organisation/Cohesion Follows the model closely, is well organised, well paragraphed, and although not many linking words are used, the language flows naturally. Accuracy Very few non-impeding errors, e.g. 'I'd like to guess where are you living ...' Communicative achievement Conventions of the communicative task are used effectively to hold the reader's attention and the ideas are clearly communicated. Content All content points addressed and developed.
